Kidney disease is more common than you think. In fact, one in three American adults are at risk for it. Shockingly, 37 million American adults currently have kidney disease and many of them are not even aware of it. This is why it's important to take care of your kidneys and get checked regularly. Unfortunately, the demand for kidney transplants is high with over 100,000 people waiting on the transplant list. NHP Staff Highlight: Meet Our Chief Operating Officer

Dr. Brian Robertson, COO

Born and raised in the Dallas area, Dr. Brian is a true-blood Texan who has been in Colorado and with NHP since early 2021. He has three degrees, two certifications, and a love of solving complicated problems. He joined NHP as the Director of Quality and has been leading operations for NHP since the summer of 2022. In his spare time, he enjoys wood-turning, fishing, and driving Jeep trails in the Colorado mountains. Married since 2004, he has a son and a daughter with a service dog.

Fun Fact: Dr. Brian never saw more than a few inches of snow every few years before relocating to Colorado. In his first few months, he shoveled snow for the first time, saw temperatures reach below zero for the first time and experienced his first blizzard (all while living in a camper).
